Arms Caches Uncovered in N.Y. Prisons

ALBANY, N.Y., Nov. 12 (AP) —Searchers at two of New York State's maximum security prisons have found hundreds of hidden weapons, officials said today.

The weapons found at Clinton Prison at Dannemora and Eastern at Napanoch were termed "a formidable array of deadly homemade weapons" by Gerald Houlihan, a spokesman for State Corrections Commissioner Russell G. Oswald, who announced the find.

The weapons included spiked sticks, stilletto knives attached to broom handles, gardening claws, long handled knives on clubs and nail-studded sticks and clubs.
